PASTORAL NOTES

Feasts of the week

St Bernard (Monday 20th August) is perhaps the most famous of the strict Cistercian Order of monks, in the 12th century (he died 1153). It was a severe rule of life and 'his friends endeavoured to dissuade him from it; but he not only remained firm – he enlisted four of his brothers and an uncle as well. Companions with apparently no previous thought of the religious life, suddenly decided to leave the world for the austere life of the monastery. Bernard induced in all thirty-one men to follow him – he who had himself been uncertain of his call only a few weeks before. It is a happening unparalleled in Christian history. Bernard's eloquent appeals were irresistible'. This week we also remember St Rose of Lima, the first saint of the new world (d. 1617), to be canonised. Her monastery was a small hut in her parents' back garden – not a calling for everyone, but recalling God as present in every place, and walk of life.

AID TO THE CHURCH IN NEED – a quotation from their newsletter. "Despite challenges, oppression and the ever-present threat of attacks, Egypt's Christians have a vibrant faith. I walked through the burnt-out rubble of St George's Coptic Catholic Cathedral, Luxor, which a mysterious fire completely destroyed. Yet, despite the devastation, more than 1,000 people pack into a hall and dusty courtyard every Sunday to celebrate the ancient Coptic Liturgy". "I also visited a church which for 25 years has not been able to have a roof put on. Shots were fired when they last tried to roof the Coptic Catholic Church in Hezaga, near Luxor – yet nearly 300 people squeeze into the half-built church every Sunday".
