PASTORAL TEACHINGS	HELPERS AT FUNERALS?
Care for the sick and bereaved in a large parish is a very important part of a priest's life, especially in a large parish with a regional General Hospital and other health care. Week by week people are visited in hospital and brought Holy Communion by trained helpers, as you well know. We have our own Florence Nightingale! Priests are called on to bring the Sacrament of the Sick, sometimes named Extreme Unction or last anointing – but many people receive this sacrament and return home! Priests celebrate the Requiem Mass but a Deacon or trained lay person may help receive a body into church, or conduct a funeral service at the crematorium or in church. With time this has become more frequent, with less priests. Our parish serves, in the hospital, Catholics from all our area, Corby, Rushden, even Market Harborough. Their priests often try and visit their own parishioners, as do our priests try and visit those of Kettering parish or anyone, who asks, but it is very much a shared service and a privileged one.
